

Introduction

Behlow Photography offers professional photographic services to commercial markets for clinical studies, product development, and product cataloging, industrial documentation. We also offer video capture and editing services. These offerings are available as direct imaging capabilities where the capture and work flow occur on your site or as an off-site option where the imaging is conducted in our studio. You can also contract us to provide consulting service to optimize your own activities using your own hardware, software and human resources.

Product Photography

Product photography is a customizable service that includes bringing our expertise and equipment to your project to photograph your products. The results will be high resolution images to illustrate and document your product in the best possible light. The end use of this service is high resolution digital images for web and print for marketing, R&D or legal requirements, usually to sell a service or product. We usually capture the images and processed them through our work flow, but do offer the option to provide raw images that you can elect to edit them and prepare them for your end use.

Clinical Photography

Clinical photography is interested in the science of precision and accuracy in imaging of its subject. We have experience with photographing human and non human subjects for the purpose of demonstrating product efficacy and activity. We have experience with designing the work flow for controlling variables and managing the work flow over a wide spectrum of sample types. We can bring our own equipment and control the entire work flow or simplify to an assistant to the project manager in the role of consultant.

Industrial Photography

Industrial Photography includes a lot of on-site picture taking and or video shots; often right at the location where the work is performed on the shop floor. This in-process photography service is available to be on-call at your site. When lighting and environmental conditions make it tough to get a good image of a work process, work environment or employee activity we can help. Our expertise in working with challenging lighting conditions and environmental difficulties will benefit your efforts to get the right shot.

Phone:513-651-5122 email:info@behlowphotography.com Web site:behlowphotography.com